Family Updates

NH National Guard

On December 22nd Warrick officially enlisted in the New Hampshire National Guard. He will attend Basic Training this Summer and Advanced Training Fall-Winter.

He is already fulfilling his monthly guard duty responsibility.

God has been doing a lot in Warrick's life this year. It's his senior year of high school, and he's getting ready to launch out into the world to continue becoming who God created him to be.

He has completed his high school transcript and we will be celebrating an early graduation soon.

Now he has turned his attention to preparing himself to serve his country with honor and remain faithful to his King of Kings as a warrior like David.

Growing Up

Warrick has worked hard to finish high school well, he is serving our country, running his own small lawn care business, working for IBMGlobal taking care of the new office and grounds, and serves at our church in the kid's zone with an autistic boy one-on-one.

Senior Missions Trip

Before we launch Warrick out into the world, we would love to take him on a missions trip to Kenya later this month.

We will be visiting our missionaries in Nairobi to experience their life and ministry there and so Jamie can help them with strategic planning, which is something Warrick loves!

Then we will take a few days to reconnect with friends we made through CABU. We will get to see what God is doing through their indigenous ministries.

Warrick wants to learn, grow, and deepen his understanding of what God is doing in the world first hand.

Would you help?

We already have the finances for Jamie and Mandy's ministry expenses, but we need to raise the finances for Warrick's missions trip expenses.

Would you pray for God to work in Warrick's heart and give financially to his trip?

His financial goal is: $2800
