

Family Updates

Lorelei has moved back to NH where she serves as the Creative & Storytelling Manager for IBMGlobal and is finishing her degree through Liberty Online.

Jorja is back at WOLBI for her second year and serving as a drummer and manager for one of the worship bands.

Warrick graduated from Army Basic Training and is on to his Advanced Training.

Chola is working hard in school and working at an ice cream shop (big deal in NH).

We know that we live in a continual spiritual battle, but sometimes it still takes us by surprise.

In August, Jamie and Mandy had to make an emergency trip to South Africa to help one of our missionary families in crisis. We are thankful for how God is working in this family, but there is still a long road ahead.

We also have a family in a Creative Access Country that could be deported or imprisoned at any time.

We love what we do and watching God work in impossible situations, but these burdens do get heavy.

Get-away!

Jamie and Mandy were able to getaway for some much needed rest. They went on a motorcycle trip to Northern Vermont and stopped at some fun places along the way.

Special Project

As Mandy's role within IBMGlobal grows, so does the needed capacity of her computer. Her previous computer was bought with the purpose of moderate level graphic design and homeschooling. It's six years old and doesn't have the processing capacity for the high quality and high volume of graphic design work she's been doing. Between the graphic design work she is doing as well as photo and video editing, she needs a computer that can keep up with her work and file load.

IBMGlobal will pay for half of the cost of a new computer, but we need to raise the support for the rest of it. You have always been such an encouragement and support to our ministry. Contributing to the cost of this new computer would greatly increase her ability to serve more and in bigger ways. We need to raise approximately $1,500 to meet this ministry need.
